

Russia, West Move Toward a Face-saving

By WARREN ROGERS JR.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia and the Western Big Three appeared today to be edging cautiously toward a face-saving way out of the new Berlin crisis.

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev touched off the tension with a Nov. 10 speech demanding an end to four-power occupation of Berlin. He hinted that Russia would no longer guarantee Western access to the city which is located deep within Communist East Germany.

Then in a formal note on Thanksgiving Day, he proposed that West Berlin be made a free city and told the United States, Britain and France to pull out their troops. He gave them six months to talk it over.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko compounded the tension on Christmas Day. He declared any attempt to keep the Western troops in isolated Berlin by force would threaten a "big war" imperiling even the American continent.

Today, in a New Year's Day greeting to the American people, Khrushchev seemed to be easing off.

He said: "There is no disputed or unsettled issue that could not

3-Day Truce by Sino Reds, Nationalists

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — A three-day New Year truce initiated by the Chinese Nationalists went into effect today.

The Communist command in Fukien province agreed to the tacit Nationalist appeal for a 72-hour cease-fire in the sporadic exchange of shelling around the Nationalist held offshore islands.

The Quemoy Island garrison had announced that the defenders would not reply to artillery fire for three days starting today.

He solved by peaceful means providing, naturally, all the parties concerned genuinely desire to do so. On our part, we can say that we do have such desire.

His statement, made to the Mutual Broadcasting System, was interpreted as a possible olive branch offering.

It came on the heels of polite but firm U.S. British and French notes to the Kremlin Wednesday rejecting its Berlin proposal. It was almost as if the propagandist Khrushchev already was trying to start a graceful retreat.

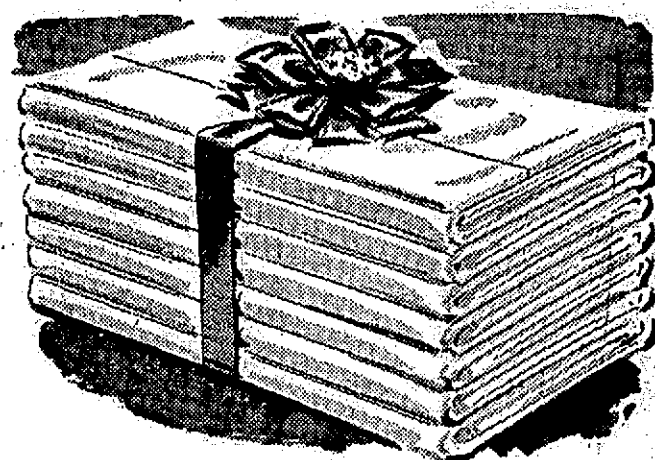

Khrushchev's right hand man and trouble shooter, Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan, is expected in Washington next week. U.S. officials look forward to Mikoyan's visit to see if it might lead to further easing of the tension, possibly even to agreement on high level Big Four conferences.

FRESH-CHURNED COUNTRY FLAVOR

Whenever you feel let down, a satisfying glass of Borden's Buttermilk helps to soothe away that upset feeling. It's nature's appetizing way to neutralize the acids in your system. It's the happy way to put yourself on top of the world again. And Borden's Buttermilk is mighty refreshing . . . with this fresh-churned country flavor that says, "Here's your health" . . . and means it.

CHAPTER XXVIII

"Hal had talked it over with Adam after Marty had left them. He said, 'I don't want to put her in the school there. I don't think she'll be happy. Her father will now consent to anything. He may live to be very old; he has good care, he vegetates. He has no desire to see her. I thought of that too. Then I decided against it. But there's a very good teacher in Paris.'"

"Travel a while," suggested her own country, let alone others. Adam, "Hildegard's never seen her own country, let alone others. Take her places."

The summer trip had been of benefit. This was a child who felt so deeply that, in trying to help her, Hal was helping her. He told no one of the hours when, during their journey to great ancient cities and to small quiet places, he had heard the crying in the night and had gone in to hold her in his arms as Marty would have done.

"But what can we do without her?"

"I don't know, Hildegard, except to go on living and loving her," always.

"It isn't fair. I had her such a little while."

Stroking the heavy hair, he had thought, I too. He didn't say it, thinking further. But, however short, how grateful I shall always be.

During that summer Adam worked hard. There was one other young man in the office learning the intricate ropes. He was eager and intelligent, he devoted training. Hal had said, "Even so, I've no business to go off for three months."

"You must," Adam had told him.

So Adam took only his weekends and, as it was a hot summer, Hope took Emily to an island to which Adam could fly on Friday nights. She left Vangie at home to look after Adam. And admitted that, much as she loved her child, 24 hours a day of Emily could fray seams; not that she wasn't good, generally speaking, simply that she was vigorous.

ous and demanding. In the month away from home Hope grew almost as brown as Vangie, for Emily was an impassioned lover of sand, sea, and wind. Emily looked rather like a at coffee bean herself, and when on the final weekend Adam came to take them home, he asked, "What have I married, what have I fathered? You are two perfectly strange young women. I have amnesia."

Hal had sold the house after their return from Europe and went back into the apartment they'd always kept. He could enter it far better than the country place. The apartment had been Jim's idea, but the house Marty's. The following summer he took a place on the water and hired a good housekeeper. The house was always full of girls and boys. For Hildegard was growing up. She had furiously despised boys for a time, but now she fell in love with them, one after another.

Hal commuted and found he didn't mind. He told Adam one day, "I don't know how I hold up. The place is a madhouse. Thank Heaven for Mrs. Justice, who really dispenses—not to the staff alone, but to the kids. And it's fine to see Hildegard emerge. She has a depth I don't find in the girls who swarm all over the place like butterflies—only a lot noisier. Still, she's one of them now. As for the boys—" He shrugged. "Well, from now on, I guess, she's 17."

Hope and Adams went down for a weekend, leaving Emily with Vangie and Boy. They had a happy and exhausting time. "I now don't see how Hal stands it," said Hope on the way back.

"Hal's a lot younger than we are," her husband reminded her. "Why, so he is," admitted Hope astonished.

Not until a few days later did she arrive at the conclusion of her thinking on that subject. "There isn't the slightest, the vaguest reason to think—Yet when you reminded me how young he is really... but he's years older than Hildegard."

"Hildegard," said Adam, "isn't young except in years."

Hope shook her head. "He is her guardian, Adam."

"Darling," said Adam, "I'm quite certain there's no law against what you're thinking."

"If Marty hadn't been—Any way, I don't like the idea."

"I think Marty hoped that after a while—"

"You do?"

"Woman," said Adam, ceasing to be elderly. "I do. Marty knew what Hal and Hildegard shared when she was with them and what they would share afterwards. Music—of course; also, they would strike sparks from each others' minds. Marty must have seen that, for I do. And they shared loving her. We don't know whether or not they will go from companionship and affection into something else. Tomorrow Hildegard may fall seriously in love with the gardener, or that idiot who keeps sailing past the dock and waving at her, or one of the Ivy League boys who infect the property. Or unsexually, which is just part of experience. Or maybe in a year, or two, or three. She will look after Hal and he at her and each will see someone new. This is not our business, darling, but I have a feeling it is Marty's."

"You mean," she asked, "like Dr. Emile and the next room? Something like that. You know, I have thought about Dr. Emile and Marty a lot. What they accomplished here, what they are like. It doesn't make sense that they wouldn't go on accomplishing. Susie."

camellias at their shoulder. Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlor. Guests were greeted and introduced to the receiving line by Mrs. Elizabeth Bryson. The bride's table was covered with a white net over taffeta and caught up at intervals with white rose-gays. It was centered with an arrangement of pink and white carnations and white tapers. The three-tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom. Miss Sara DeWoody was in charge of the bride's book.

Assisting in serving were Misses Mary Ann DeWoody, Mary Jewel Herring, Jane Purdie, Virginia Purdie, Sally Cottingham and Mrs. Delmar Tyree.

After the reception the couple left for a wedding trip. For travel the bride chose a two piece blue wool dress with black accessories and pinned the orchid from her bridal corsage at her shoulder.

Mrs. H. O. Kyler Entertains Friends

On the afternoons of December 30 and December 31, Mrs. H. O. Kyler entertained her friends with a Mother & Daughter Party. About ten guests called each afternoon. They found the Kyler home beautifully decorated for the holiday season. After friends had renewed old acquaintances and made new ones, the hostess served delicious apple cake, coffee, and assorted cookies and candies.

Miss Bevelyn Ball Honored With Gift Tea

A gift tea for Miss Bevelyn Ball, bride-elect, was given by Misses Margie Clark, Linda Purdie and Dorothy Ball on December 30 in the Clark home. Holiday decorations were seen throughout the home.

The honoree, attired in a brown frock of winter cotton, was given a corsage of pink carnations. Her mother, Mrs. A. C. Ball, also received a pink carnation corsage. The dining table was centered with a lovely arrangement of pink carnations. The guests were served cake by Miss Linda Purdie and Miss Dorothy Ball poured the punch. Mrs. Vivian Gutensohn of Little Rock played the piano during the afternoon entertainment.

Besides Mrs. Gutensohn, other out-of-town guests were Mrs. Jack Bowls of Little Rock and Mrs. Dale Gardner of Kansas City, Kan.

Family Reunion Held in Allen Home

Christmas Eve, 1958, an annual family reunion was held in the home of Mrs. J. G. Allen in the Oak Grove community. The 40 members of the family who gathered for the occasion, enjoyed dinner, exchanged gifts, took pictures, and sang carols.

Most of Mrs. Allen's 12 children, 27 grandchildren, and three great-grandchildren were among those present. They included Mr. and Mrs. Willie C. Allen and daughter of Dallas, Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Robertson and daughter of Dallas, Mr. and Mrs. Earl R. White and children of Fort Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Allen and family of Magnolia, and Mr. and Mrs. Mount Revols and son of Houston.

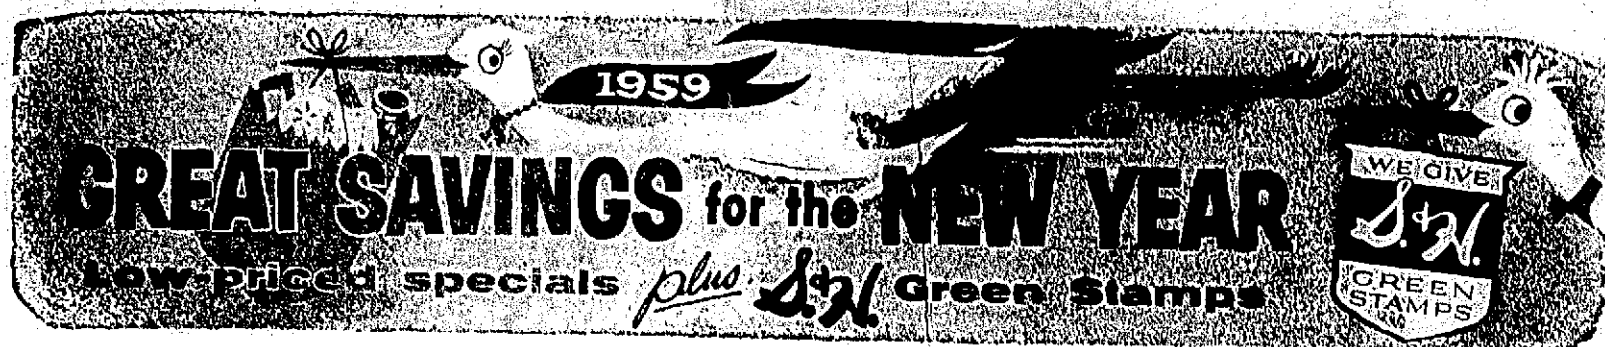

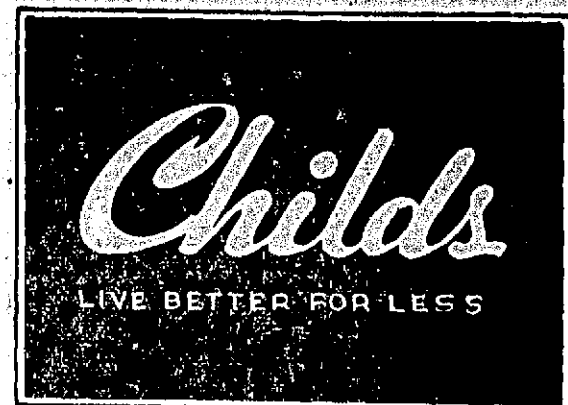

Those from Hope were Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Allen and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Allen and children, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Baynes, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Reiford, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stewart and daughter, and Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Stevenson.

Coming and Going

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Cooper are visiting in Dallas with Mr. and Mrs. James Robert Cooper and children.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Gardner of Kansas City, Kan., spent Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Hall. Mr. Gardner has returned home, but Mrs. Gardner has remained for a few more days.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Singleton have spent the past few days with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Singleton in San Antonio, Tex., and with the W. J. Greenwald family in Sugar Land, Tex. They returned home Tuesday night.

Football Bowl Season Reaches Climax Today

BY ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

The football bowl season reached its climax today with Iowa, Louisiana State, Oklahoma and Texas Christian favored to walk off four widely separated gridiron victories.

The last surge of bowl competition got underway Wednesday when Wyoming turned two Hardin-Simmons mistakes into touchdowns for a 14-0 victory in the Sun Bowl at El Paso, Tex.

Iowa, beaten only by Ohio State and led by the Air Force Academy in a nine-game schedule, was the outstanding favorite to measure California (7-3) in the Rose Bowl, the daddy of all the post-season football classics at Pasadena, Calif.

Unbeaten Louisiana State, winner of 10 and the nation's No. 1 ranked team, also was the strong choice to turn back Clemson (8-2) in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans.

The same went for Oklahoma's once-beaten Sooners (9-1) in their Orange Bowl battle with Syracuse (8-1) at Miami, Fla.

Texas Christian, (8-2) champion of the Southwest Conference, likewise was favored, but by no such big margin, over outweighted Air Force Academy (9-0-1), playing in its first bowl after only three years of varsity competition. They landed in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas.

With available seats as estimated as the 200,000, some 233,000 persons were slated to sit in on the four major bowls with the largest crowd of 100,000 at the Rose Bowl. Capacity of the Sugar Bowl is 82,000, the Orange 70,000 and the Cotton 75,000.

For those fans who by choice or otherwise, elected to stay at home, there was a choice of all four games via television.

The Orange Bowl, with a 1 p.m. EST kickoff, and the Cotton Bowl starting 3:30 p.m. EST, were to be televised by CBS. NBC telecast the Sugar Bowl, 2 p.m. EST, and the Rose Bowl, 3 p.m. EST.

For Oklahoma, appearance in a bowl game was nothing new. The Sooners have been in eight previous post-season games in 20 years for a 0-2 record. They haven't lost in three Orange Bowl visits, beating Duke 48-21 last year.

Iowa, headed by All-American Randy Duncan, also was after its second straight bowl triumph in three years. The Hawkeyes turned back Oregon State 35-19 in 1957. The Iowa-California game is the last Rose Bowl contest between representatives of the Big Ten and the Pacific Coast Conference.

The PCC goes out of existence next spring.

Although the prospect of wet underfooting raised the hopes of Clemson supporters, there weren't many who could force the Atlanta

North Carolina State Has 7th Dixie Classic

BY JIM KENSIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Wolfpack is snarling again. North Carolina State today had its seventh Dixie Classic championship in 10 years to prove it, but it was the first time in three years the Wolfpack had been able to win its own tournament. Coach Everett Case called it his "greatest tournament triumph."

Ranked fifth nationally in the latest Associated Press college basketball poll, the Wolfpack made a strong bid for an even higher rating with a smashing 70-61 victory over seventh-ranked Michigan State Wednesday night in the Dixie Classic. The triumph was the third in three days for the Wolfpack who Tuesday upset second-ranked Cincinnati after turning back Louisville in the first round of the Dixie at Raleigh, N.C.

Only third-ranked Kansas State has beaten N.C. State this season, and that loss came on the road. The Wolfpack has won nine.

Meanwhile, at Charlotte, undefeated St. Francis of Loretto, Pa., dug in after blowing a 20-point second-half lead and whipped Fordham 74-71 for the championship of the Carquest Classic.

The Gulf South Classic at Shreveport, La., also crowned a champion, Louisiana Tech, a 71-66 overtime victor over Virginia Tech.

In major non-tournament games, sixth-ranked Northwestern struck by 1,500 pilots and co-pilots Dec. 20. No negotiations are in progress and none are scheduled. Eastern has recalled 16,000 employees, furloughed after the line was struck Nov. 24.

A major factor in the Eastern dispute was pilot training for engineers. Company officials said in New York that the agreement follows a National Mediation Board recommendation that the company withhold pilot training for its 70 engineers who will fly in jet aircraft. The training agreement covers the period of the new contract — to April 1, 1960 — or until the government orders new crew qualifications.

A federal court order had barred the engineers from continuing a strike over the pilot training issue. The walkout continued on the basis of other issues, including pay, travel expenses and seniority.

ogues of Washington and Godfrey P. Schmidt of New York.

The third monitor, L. N. Wells of Detroit, who sits on the panel as the "Teamsters' own representative, was reported as indicating privately he considered the attempted unionization "poor judgment."

U. S. Dist. Judge F. Dickinson Letts has warned that disregard of recommendations by the monitors could result in the removal of Hoffa and his entire executive board.

He named the monitors to eradicate gangster influence and establish democratic practices within the much-investigated union. Hoffa, himself, seemed to be toning down the unionization drive. He said in a statement the union would take in policeman "only if they come to us."

tains south of Santa Clara Wednesday said the police headquarters, a provincial government building and the Grand Hotel had been captured in the capital of Las Villas province.

The rebels earlier had been heard broadcasting an urgent appeal for reinforcements. Lightly armed rebel foot soldiers, outnumbered up to 10 to 1 in Las Villas, have been battling the pick of Batista's infantry backed by tanks, artillery and warplanes.

The rebels west of Santa Clara were unable to resist tank attacks, another rebel broadcast said. It reported "numerous dead and wounded."

A government communique said an army armored column moved into the city, wiping out hundreds of rebels.

Mountbatten Top British Militaryman

LONDON (AP) — Adm. Earl Mountbatten, 58-year-old service chief of the Royal Navy and one of the British nobility's brightest figures, will become the country's first military man next July.

He will take over the post of lord since April 1955 and the uncle of Prince Philip, would become chairman of the Chiefs of Staff Committee, the British equivalent of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Says Politicians Still Fear Books

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet writer Ilya Ehrenburg says that in 1958 some politicians still feared books as much as bombs.

"We're inclined to argue, not by books but by bombs!" Ehrenburg, long a pet in the Kremlin's intellectual stable, wrote in the magazine "New Times". He named no specific book.

(The world's most famous case of bookburning in 1958 was the Kremlin's denunciation of the Bolshevik revolution. Banned in Russia, its publication in the West was followed by the award of the 1958 Nobel Prize in Literature to Pasternak.)

WOMEN'S WORLD

WHITE SANDS — PROVING GROUND, N. M. (AP) — About one-fifth of the 9,000 persons working for the Army Missile Test Center, Naval Ordnance Missile Test Facility and private industry contractors at this proving ground are women. Members of the fairer sex hold down jobs ranging from technical and engineering positions in the guided missile program to clerical and stenographic work.

The eggs of birds have brittle shells, while the eggs of snakes have elastic shells.
